The HWBOT World Tour 2016 Lands in Brazil

HWBOT Invites Enthusiasts to Attend the Campus Party in Sao Paulo for Overclocking Workshops, Contests and a Bench Party

January 20, 2016 - HWBOT, an organization regulating international overclocking competitions and rankings is pleased to invite all PC enthusiasts, PC gamers and overclockers to the Campus Party in Sao paulo Brazil for the first stop of the HWBOT World Tour 2016.

Running from January 26th to 31st, HWBOT will host a series of events at the Campus Party, including Overclocking Workshops, two World Series Overclocking contests plus a more social oriented Bench Party where PC enthusiasts, gamers and overclockers can mix and socialize while learning more about Overclocking.

“We are really excited to bring the HWBOT World Tour to Latin America for the first time,” commented Pieter Jan-Plaisier, Director at HWBOT. “We cannot wait to harness the energy of Brazil’s massive enthusiast audience to further develop and promote Overclocking in this part of the world.”

The HWBOT World Tour 2016

The HWBOT World Tour is a series of overclocking events held around the globe that aims to provide a relaxed social environment for overclockers to learn, share and compete. The idea is primarily to nurture the next generation of overclockers with open OC workshops where total amateurs can get some first hands-on experience and learn vital tricks and tweaks from more seasoned players.

Of course, no Overclocking event would be complete without some competitive action so each stop on the tour offers contests that cater for all levels and abilities, as well as providing space for some seriously extreme Overclocking. The LN2 flows freely.

Campus Party Sao Paulo, Brazil: Jan 26 -31

The HWBOT World Tour 2016 at Campus Party in Sao Paolo, Brazil runs from January 26th to 31st and will feature the following activities:

- Workshop: Overclocking classes for amateurs taught by local overclockers (Ideal for first time overclockers).
- World Series: Overclocking Competition for both amateur and extreme overclockers.
- Bench Party: A BYOC bench party for extreme and enthusiast overclockers.
